PILES! PILES! PILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr.
William, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Loathsome instruments and elec-tricities do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. William's Pile Ointment; I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

ceipt of price, $1.

Skin Diseases Cured

—BY DR. FRAZIER'S MAGIC OINTMENT. Cure as if by magic, pimples, black head or grubs, blotches and eruptions on the face, leaving the skin clear, healthy and beautiful. Also cures itch, barber's itch, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm, scald head, chapped hands, sore nipples, sore lips, old obstinate ulcers and sores, &c.

SKIN DISEASE.

F. Drake, Esq., Cleveland, O., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used Dr. Frazier's Magic Ointment and was cured by a few applications.

The first and positive cure for skin diseases ever discovered.

Wood, druggist.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

Tree Growing from Cuttings.

Timber, shade, shelter, wind breaks and fuel are more readily grown from those trees multiplied by cuttings than in any other way. The varieties thus multiplied from cuttings are all soft, rapidly growing woods. Those with which we are acquainted are the willow, cottonwood, Lombardy poplar, balm of Gilead, linn or basswood, etc. Of these we reject the balm of Gilead because of its sprouting from the roots. The basswood we esteem highly, but have had no experience with it grown from cuttings.

The willow, Lombardy poplar and cottonwood—to the manor born—have made the greatest success in the prairie States.
We regard the success of even these as best attained when the cuttings are set in soil well rotted and in fine tilth, with the weeds kept down by mulching or cultivation the first year or so. After they get well rooted they will look out for themselves. Cuttings of either should be set in nursery style—about ten inches apart in the row, rows about two feet apart, and when one or two years thus grown transplanted as carefully as a fruit tree to their appointed place.

The best soil for the poplar is any good, dry soil. It is not particular, flourishing alike upon dry sands or the richest corn land or river bottoms. This is also true of the cottonwood—growing not only from the cutting, but from its seeds, distributed everywhere by the winds and growing everywhere that they can get a foothold, if the consuming prairie fires are kept away. The cottonwood well deserves greater encouragement than it receives. It has as much value as a tree, standing upon the earth, affording shade, shelter, protection in winter and ameliorating influence upon climate, as the highly esteemed walnut or hickory. Its wood has some little value also for fuel.

The willow is also adapted to a wide range of soil. Its wood is more valuable for fuel than either of the others, making a valuable charcoal. The tree in all its varieties is thoroughly well adapted to swamp or slough grounds.
There is scarcely a farm in the prairie States but has enough of low ground, perhaps now waste, from which to grow fuel and stakes, poles, etc., for the use of the farm. Suppose we tell how this may be readily done.
The grass sward of a slough is very difficult to subdue. Do not undertake it. Having a supply of willow cuttings, from two to three years grown in the nursery, begin the preparation of your ground for their reception. Give your slough sward a dressing of strawy mature, straw, or spoiled hay, sufficient to kill the sod. This may be done to best advantage in August or early September.
The sward will be considerably rotted by the next spring. If the trees are to stand in rows, the mulch should be applied in rows, and to the space designed to be occupied by the trees—say to the width of six feet. Use care in taking up the young willows to preserve the roots uninjured, that they may make a strong and rapid growth from the start.
Give them a mulching of manure sufficient to keep down the grass for a year or two, and in that time your willows will make a growth that will astonish you. They flourish best upon a rich moist soil. Grass—a stiff grass sod—will kill them, however, as it will nearly all trees. But with the grass smothered by mulch for a few months, their shade will be equal to smothering in turn the most tenacious grasses, and the willow will be master of the situation. It then ceases to be an object of care, and becomes a source of profit. This is the course with all farm crops.

The willow, cottonwood, Lombardy poplar and various other trees may in like manner be cultivated successfully upon upland. The chief drawback by far in wild prairie countries.
We would not be understood as recommending the cultivation of soft woods over the more valuable. They must all be multiplied or we must learn to do without them. But we regard the fast growing, easily multiplied and started varieties produced from cuttings as very useful, and when the question of an immediate supply is under consideration, as being greatly preferable to the slow-growing varieties. The well-planned store, brick or even wood house is greatly preferable to the tent, and yet the tent answers as a shelter while the others are being produced.

The willow may be shorn of its branches like the pie-plant, every few years, having a care not to cut below the head or part from which the branches spring; more will come. We have mailed thousands of cuttings to Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, where they are giving the greatest satisfaction.—W. H. Gardner, in Chicago Weekly Herald.

Social Amusements.

You expect a few friends to pass an evening with you; how do you propose to entertain them? Conversation is not all-sufficient, particularly as there is sure to be one in the party who devoutly believes in "Great I," and desires to convert all others to the same belief by constantly sounding his praises. It never seems to occur to many folks that in order to entertain people one must give thought to it; that people are not made happy without effort—wisely directed effort.

Our observations lead us to think that half at least of the good companionship of the world comes from the good forethought of somebody. Somebody has planned it. The happy occurrence was not an accident; it was the result of premeditation. All the little and sweet social surprises of life; all the little domestic secrets between children and parents, which in their unfolding brim the household with gladness; all the larger and more stately social festivities that keep the life of a neighborhood buoyant, are only the natural sequence of benevolent and good-natured thought on the part of some one.

Music is an important element of entertainment; but perhaps of the dozen you have invited, not over one or two have voices sufficiently cultivated to sing in public.

Games? Excellent. Few of us that don't like to play games—checkers, chess, whist, anything that is light, sprightly and entertaining.

Have you any pictorial books in your library or about the house? If so, be sure to place them on the center table.
We have known a single volume to furnish delightful entertainment to a whole group for an hour.

Have you a Chinese top? If not, purchase one. It may cost you twenty cents, and we'll warrant that the first evening after you get it, if you be rightfully constructed morally, you will want no other entertainment than you will get out of spinning it yourself. Do you say, "Pshaw! tops are for boys?" All right; why not a boy occasionally? Try it, and see how you like it. We dare say, you have been a man so long you have forgotten all about being a boy. Give your memory a jog—the experience will do you good.

THE ancient Huns seem to be the ugliest of all the ugly races of Central Asia, and the homeliest individual was probably the "veiled prophet of Bokhara," the repulsiveness of whose features was so overpowering that he did not venture to appear without a mask, for which he afterwards substituted a golden veil, and was consequently known as "the veiled one."

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVE, MAY 31, 1882.

TERMS:—The EVENING BULLETIN is published daily, and served free of postage at 6 cents per week; 25 cents per month; 75 cents per three months; $1.50 per six months, and $3 per year, payable in advance.

THE EVENING BULLETIN HAS A LARGER CIRCULATION IN THIS CITY, CHESTER AND ABERDEEN, OHIO, THAN ANY OTHER PAPER PUBLISHED IN MAYSVILLE.

SENATOR Ben Hill is reported to be recovering.

THERE are fifty candidates for office in Morgan county.

HEMP is selling at $5 and $5.50 per hundred in Lexington.

FRANK JAMES is said to be negotiating with the governors of Missouri, Arkansas and Texas for an unconditional pardon. He is said to be broken down in health and anxious to settle down and lead an honest life in future.

MISS MAGGIE HARPER, a well-known beauty, while gathering wild-flowers near Louisville, fell over a cliff seventy-five feet high and escaped uninjured. We should like to see the girl from any other state who can do that.

BRUCE CHAMP expresses a Bourbon county opinion as follows: "Heaven is worth the whole world, but there are few men who wouldn't rather cling on to a thousand acres of bluegrass land." The few men are probably those who have a wholesome respect for the tax collector.

A LONG and earnest struggle is imminent between the iron workers and mill owners at Pittsburg and other points where the iron industries are extensively pursued. The strike at Pittsburg is expected to begin this week and will be followed up at all the other points and before the week has passed away there is a prospect of at least 100,000 men being out of employment. The outlook is decidedly gloomy.

Fastest Time on Record.

The steamer James Lee, running in the Memphis and Helena trade, has made the fastest time ever made by any steamer on the Ohio or Mississippi rivers. On the 24th inst., the distance from Helena to Memphis, 90 miles, was run in 5 hours and 33 minutes. This run was made up stream against a strong current. The City of Providence ran the same distance in 5 hours and 49½ minutes.

SENATOR DON. CAMERON has declared to a friend at Washington that he is not a candidate for re-election and no contingency at present foreseen could induce him to again accept that high place. The tremendous expense attending party leadership in Pennsylvania is assigned as a reason for the senator's withdrawal from the political arena. There will be some persons blunt enough to say that he can be spared from public life without detriment to the welfare of the country.

THE Supreme Court of Ohio has decided by a majority of four to one of the judges, that the pond law is unconstitutional on the ground that it is in the nature of a license. The subject was brought before the court from Crawford county, where an application was made for a writ of mandamus to compel the authorities to issue to the plaintiff a license under the Pond Liquor Law. When the case was reserved to the Supreme Court the mandamus was refused it being held that the Pond Law was in conflict with the clause of the constitution prohibiting a license of the liquor traffic. The decision has produced much excitement and is expected to have an important bearing upon politics.

MRS. JEANNETTE DELISLE has on exhibition at the opera house, an interesting collection of well-trained dogs, birds, goats etc., which do many seemingly wonderful things. There is besides a juggling exhibition and a Punch and Judy show which are interesting and amusing. The prices of admission are 10 and 15 cents.

THE case of William Yates, colored, with assaulting Charles Dempsey, also colored, with intent to kill, has been continued until next Thursday, on account of Dempsey not being able to appear in court. The assault was committed at Brooks & Parker's stable last Monday. The weapon used was a hatchet. Dempsey was severely cut in the head.

FOR sometime past the farmers in the vicinity of West Union, Ohio, have been very much annoyed by barn-burners and petty thieves. A vigilance committee was organized for mutual protection, but until Tuesday all efforts to detect the culprits failed. A young man against whom suspicion had rested for some time, was taken into custody by a posse of about seventy-five of the most influential people of the neighborhood, and stretched up to a tree to extort from him a confession. He weakened and admitted belonging to a band of incendiaries and thieves, which included some fifteen persons living in the vicinity. They were immediately notified to leave the county within a given time, which they did, embarking on one of the boats at Wrightsville, six miles above Manchester. A gentleman who came down on the Handy this morning, says that several of them got off at Concord. The people there should make them move on promptly. Kentucky is not a haven for Ohio thieves.

The Maysville Guards Decide to Disband.

At a regular meeting of the Maysville Guards, held at their armory in Cooper's Hall, Tuesday evening, it was moved that Capt. R. A. Cochran, Jr., write to adjutant general Nuckles and request that he muster the Maysville Guards out of service. The motion was carried with but a few dissenting voices. The trouble seems to be this: The armory which the guards have been using since their organization has been rented at a cost of about $150 a year. This rent has, heretofore, been paid by the county, in accordance with the General Statutes on the subject. But since the organization of the Emmet Guards the county judge has notified Capt. Cochran that the county would no longer pay the rent. It seems that the county judge under the circumstances, had no other course to pursue but, as the statutes require the county to provide but one armory, and the owners of the above hall would suffer but one company to occupy it. Captain Cochran stated at the meeting that he thought the expense of furnishing their own armory would be too heavy a tax on the boys. He seemed to be of the opinion that no two companies of Maysville boys could peaceably occupy the same hall. The members, under the circumstances, decided to take the above action.

Hon. E. C. Phister.

From the Sunday Morning Call.

Hon. E. C. Phister, our present able representative in congress, has announced his intention not to be a candidate for reelection. This leaves the field open for the numerous gentlemen willing to sacrifice themselves for their party's interest, as with Judge Phister against them none of them would stand the ghost of a chance. He has twice received the unanimous nomination by the Democratic party, and each time has borne the flag to victory, the last time in a hotly contested race against the combined efforts of the state and national Republicans; that party having used every means in two or three Kentucky districts to secure a Republican representative. With Judge Phister's nomination means election, as he has never been defeated before the people for any office he has sought. His many friends will regret to hear of his resolution, as he is the best material of the party in the district, and stands head and shoulders above the rival candidates for his position. During his two terms he has made an able, faithful and industrious representative, looking well to the interests of his constituents, always at his post, ever courteous and obliging in the numerous and harassing calls upon his time and attention, and above all a man of the utmost purity of character, in both public and private life. Not one to seek mere newspaper notoriety, he has not devoted his time to oratorical display on the floor of the house, though when occasion required his speeches were ready, just to the point and delivered with telling effect. His labor has chiefly been bestowed on the more important work of the committee room and the caucus, where his counsels are always sought, and where his thoughtfulness and wisdom give him a high and leading position. The highest encomiums ever passed in public by Allen G. Thurman was that bestowed on Judge Phister in one of the Democratic caucuses of the Forty-sixth Congress, and the great man looked upon him as one of his wisest and most trusted counsellors. Judge Phister leaves his seat in congress with the universal confidence and respect of all parties in and out of his district, and the Democrats will find difficulty in suitably filling his place. At the head of the bar in North-Eastern Kentucky, just in the prime of life, he returns to the practice of his profession strengthened and benefited by his four years of rest from legal duties.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Mr. Wm. Alexander, of Lewisburg, we regret to announce, is dangerously ill.

Miss Carrie Toup is visiting Miss Lula Jones at Covington.

Captain M. C. Hutchins left on Tuesday for Washington City.

Mr. John Miller, who has been at Osborne, Ohio, for several weeks, working at his trade, blacksmithing, is at home again. He is one of the best workmen in the city.

The advance in the price of beef is almost without parallel. At Chicago on Saturday it touched a higher figure than at any time in the history of the city. In New York dressed bullocks were selling at nearly $17 per hundred weight, and in Cincinnati there were no desirable ones for sale. The Cincinnati Enquirer says:

A well-known local buyer in this city received a New York order on Saturday to "buy everything that had hoofs," and buy it at any price. One Chicago dealer purchased seven hundred head of cattle from one Cincinnati distilling firm last week, and he is holding his property for even higher prices. It is as difficult to peddle the immediately outcome of this unnatural rise as it is to name the cause. The reports at the Agricultural Bureau in Washington are monotonous, so uniform are they in naming the exceptionally healthy condition of stock all over this country. The open winter has been especially favorable to the development of cattle, and yet on the heels of these flattering reports comes this sudden rise. Were the cattle thinned out last fall after a light crop of grass caused by the prolonged drought, leaving the farmers none to sell this spring? There seems, however, to be an ample supply from some quarter, since the receipts and shipments at nearly all cattle markets were yesterday extraordinarily large. The remote outcome of this corner in cattle, if corner there is, will be a very sudden drop, and possibly, among dealers, a panic. The present prices can not be sustained.

NEWS BREVITIES.

By the falling of a building at Maysville, Pa., Samuel Whitmeyer, Samuel Beecher and John Shenk were killed and several others seriously injured.

Several of the dies used in printing money were found lying around loose in the treasury office Saturday, creating the suspicion that they had been loaned to counterfeiter. George W. Bud, the custodian, was promptly discharged by the secretary.

The statement is denied that Washington authorities have asked James Van Heise, of Newark, N. J., to superintend the hanging of the assassin. Warden Crocker, upon whom the duty falls, is the equal of Mr. Van Heise or any other executioner in the country.

The wheat acreage for Michigan this year is probably not materially increased except in the newer settled counties. For the present year it will somewhat exceed that aggregate. With good harvest weather, it seems safe to say that the crop of 1882 will be a million bushels exceed that of 1880.

RETURNED FROM HEAVEN.

The Remarkable Case of Hattie Craig, of Boston—After Dying She Recovers, Bringing Assurances of Health Received in Heaven—Death Followed, However, in a Few Days.

BOSTON, May 28.—A strange story is just reported from East Boston. Recently there died at the residence of a Mrs. R. Lovejoy, No. 157 Webster street, Hattie G. Craig, about twenty-four years old. Her death was produced by sickness of nearly a year, and the disease of which she died was clearly of a consumptive nature. The deceased was a most estimable young lady in every respect, and was an active member of the Sunday school of the Warren American Baptist Church. On the 12th the long-suffering patient appeared to have breathed her last. The body was laid out and preparations made for the funeral. Some hours afterwards the weeping father, who was about leaving the room, was startled by a movement of the body, and an exclamation simultaneously of "Papa, papa, please don't leave me!" When he turned around he saw, with delight and astonishment, that his daughter was not a corpse, but an actual living and a conscious being. Of course there was now great joy and consternation throughout the household. When she became somewhat calm, Miss Craig, with a smile and countenance angelic beyond description, asked: "Oh, papa, dear, do you know where I have been?"

"No, Hattie, tell me where you have been. Let me know all about it," answered the overjoyed father.

"Oh, papa," I have seen heaven, and am to have my health restored to me on certain conditions," she answered in great glee.

"What are these conditions, and are you willing to submit to them?" asked the father.

"Yes, father; certainly I am."

"But what are they?" still queried the parent.

"I cannot reveal them to you now; but oh I saw such beautiful things in heaven, and am going to heaven again, and when I go don't let them put me in the ground until you are sure I am dead." During the rest of the day up to six o'clock in the evening the poor girl was alternately unconscious and in a swooning condition.

In her lucid moments, which were frequently prolonged, she all the while insisted that she had been in Heaven. But no inducement could tempt her to reveal the splendors and delights of what she saw on the golden shores. She is said to have been impressed with an indescribable desire, even an absolute longing, to return. Soon after this she had five or six spasms, and in the last one she was in the most excruciating agony, and piteously begged to be killed. Soon after she died. In view of what had happened in the morning, it was determined to have the most absolute proof of death before making any arrangements for the obsequies or burial. A close watch of the remains detected a movement of the ball at frequent intervals, and one of the eyes persisted in keeping open in spite of all efforts to close it. Dr. E. A. Gilman, of South Boston, made a careful examination and advised against interment until there was unmistakable signs of decomposition. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon, the 14th inst., the services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Gifford, of the Warren avenue church. At this time the appearance of the body had not changed, and one of the near relatives is firm in the belief that Miss Craig heard every word of the exercises. Subsequent to the funeral Dr. Taft, of Worcester, said the case was wholly different from any he had ever witnessed. There were none of the usual evidences of death, and yet he could not believe the girl was living. Four days after the first supposed dissolution the most unmistakable evidence of mortification were apparent, and the remains of the poor girl were on that day taken to Andover for final interment.

At Indianapolis Sunday, the order for the closing of saloons from 11 p. m. Saturday until midnight Sunday, was strictly enforced.

The Chicago brokers and commission men number over eleven hundred. Not over one hundred of these are interested either in the bringing of property to the city or in sending it away. It is predicted that the decision of arbitrators relative to the April corner will lessen the number of speculators in grain, but increase the number interested in bringing grain in and sending it away.

BATCHELDER'S

Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensable to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case without rehandling.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, jolting, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.
